"But now let us consider further, Have you ever stopped to think what a world of beautiful, sacred and holy thought is connected with Decoration Day? Yes, I know you have, because you are a patriotic people. I do not need, therefore, to dwell upon the significance of that day. But allow me briefly to recall that picture which is presented by the loyal people of this country on every 30th of May.

"As the day approaches, the warming sanshine of springtime brings out the flowers. As they peep and bud, and bloom and blossom, the mothers and awidows and orphans note their coming, and watch with anxious care for the bloom and blossom, the mothers and widows and orphans note their coming, and watch with anxious care for the brightest and most beautiful. They have a special use for them. They are thinking of the dark and trying days of 1801-05. They are recalling idolized, darling boys, husbands and fathers, who then volunteered and marched away after the flag, never to return again. They remember, as though it was but yesterday, the last fond embrace. They again feel the wreaching of the chord strings of the heart. They are once more blinded with tears. They are once more blinded with tears. They recall that strange, wild delirium of war. They again fear the rattle of the drum, the shrill, piercing notes of the fife. They once more see the flag floating on the breeze. They hear again the resounding tramp of marching men. They see pale but determined faces in line. Hark! they are moving. They are off. They fade out of sight forever. Oh, God, can any language express the utter loneliness and desolation of the mothers and wives who thus gave up their loved ones?" Think of them as they returned to their homes, there to wait and watch and pray until their darlings might come Recall, if you can, the terrible scenes, the great sacrifices, the unuterable woe of that fearful time, and then you can appreciate what is passing in the minds of the mother, the widow and the orphans and the surviving comrades, as they note the budding and blooming of the bright flowers of springtime. They are thinking again of the low, grassy mound in the cemetery, where lie and sleep their last sleep the brave-hearted heroes who went down in the prime of their manhoed.

issuspended. A holy hush falls upon the whole land. The Grand Army boys gather at their post headquarters. They brush up their uniforms, polish their buttons, get out the flag, and beneath its folds with solemn step, and keeping time to the drum-beat, they march again. Not, however, to battle. The drum is mufiled. The flag is draped. They are marching to the sacred spots where their comrades lie. The mothers, the fathers, the widows, the orphans, the whole community fall into the procession, and all wend their way to the places of the dead. Here are a score of the most beautiful little maidens of the place. They carry baskets of flowers. They are laden with the brightest garlands that can be woven. They look like very angels from heaven. The cemetery is reached. Patriotic words are spoken, and every head is bared and every head is bared and every heart is bowed, while Almighty God is worshiped and His divine blessing is invoked and received.

"The little girls go forward. The flowers are scattered, and as they fall every eye is wet with tears, just as I see are the eyes of hundreds of you now. Every soul seems lifted up to a higher plane. It is a 'Nearer My God, to Thee' time. All who have participated are better, purer and holier for having done so. They have performed a sacred and enhobling duty; they have done what every patriot is hould do. It is almost impossible to believe that any intelligent, patriotic American citizon could allow the day to pass without its due observance. Look out through your minst and behold the pinting of the whole and so engaged. See with your mental vision this beautiful ceremony occurring in every cometery from one ocean to the other. Shold the widows, the orphans, the mothers, the veteran survivors there assembled. See the rising generations, as they drink in the wholesome and inspiriting lessons of patriotism. Listen to the prayers for our country, the dead, the living and the future generations of America. Hear the thrilling songs that are sung, and the words of patriotism that are spoken, and as you hold all this picture in your mind, remember that if there is one man, who, more than all others, has been benefited by the swerifices that are being knonced, one man more than all others who should manifest appreciation for those sacrifices and be glad to engage in such patriotic and sacred ceremonies, it is President of the United States, who, but for the deeds of such herces, would not have had any government to be President of the Surely his heart is overflowing with emotion.

are "sick unto death" with the terrible diseases as common to their sex, and it. are "sick unto death" with the terrible diseases so common to their sex, and it would seem as if all the happiness had gone out of life and the household in consequence. For when the wife and mother suffers all the family suffers with her. This ought not to be, and it need not be, for a never-failing remedy for woman's aliments is at hand. Many a home has been made happy because the shadow of disease has been banished from it by the potent power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the unfailing remedy for all weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women.
